BLACK TEA

Black tea is completely oxidised and when processed, undergoes the five primary steps of withering, rolling, fermentation, drying and sorting.

TEA PLANT (Camellia sinensis)

Fine harvest black teas or Flowery Orange Pekoes are gathered early and carefully, consisting strictly of unopened buds and the first two leaves. The leaves are delicately rolled lengthwise to release their essential oils. The presence of the tip of the bud is a sign of quality since only the youngest shoots are used for the finest teas. Number '1' when added to the grade defines the tea as of the finest quality within that grade.

INDIA, DARJEELING

CASTLETON SFTGFOP1

1ST FLUSH • T13

This illustrious estate is situated at altitudes of 1,300 to 2,500 metres and produces harvests of unequalled quality. The delicate green leaves of this first harvest of the year offer a refreshing cup with an enveloping fragrance of ripe apricots and grapes, and a unique aftertaste of green almonds and white currants.

MARGARET'S HOPE FTGFOP1

2ND FLUSH • T8

The second flush of this prestigious garden is a favourite of connoisseurs. This TWG summer harvest infuses into a copper-red cup and develops a taste of delicious ripe fruits. The elegant floral bouquet lends itself perfectly to a light afternoon snack.
